Open-source blockchain initiative Hyperledger, founded by the Linux Foundation, today announced its new general members, including Xunlei Limited, to advance cross-industry blockchain technologies.

“We are very honored to join the Hyperledger community and look forward to contributing our experience in advancing cross-industry blockchain technologies and setting industry standards,” said Mr. Lei Chen, CEO of Xunlei Limited. “Our high-performance blockchain platform ThunderChain opened up recently. A variety of applications are being developed on it for all walks of life. Becoming a member of Hyperledger will help us accelerate the connection between blockchain technology and the real economy.”
